Conclusions

Developed System

A mobile user-friendly mobile application for a user, a web application for admin control have both been developed. Below are the key features of the system:

Reporting

A user can report an endangered animal using the mobile application. Administrators will receive the reports in a web application, the administrator will then contact an appropriate rescue team to save the animal.

Adoption

Adoption adverts can be added via a web portal and accessed within the mobile application to free space in shelters!

Conclusions

The developed solution is a step in the correct direction. Using the systems reporting, adoption features a positive impact on animal welfare can be made!
